2011-2012

Springfield Regional Arts Council

Letter from Incoming President: Pam RuBert

The past few years have been challenging for everyone. I'm fortunate to be following in the footsteps of many great Springfield Regional Arts Council board presidents, the most recent who faced challenges of helping navigate through an economic recession combined with the expiration of a major federal funding grant.

The Arts Council has met these challenges, and I think, come out stronger and smarter. Following our strategic retreat in July, the board crafted new organizational statements to help us on this forward path.

The Vision Statement, "SRAC makes the arts a vital part of the community, which is a place where the arts are essential," will call on all our strategic plans to become reality. However no one can ever predict the future in total. That's why in the face of unexpected adversity or opportunity, the new set of Values will be our compass.

Values also help say to the community and our partners in a few words what we stand for, support, and look for in future alliances. Some examples of current partners who are a good fit include the Springfield Business Journal, who helps us communicate to the business community how the arts are important for both cultural and economic health of our region. The Springfield-Branson National Airport Sky Gallery and many corporate art sponsors help us offer more exhibition opportunities to visual artists. SRAC organizational members such as the Springfield Little Theatre, Springfield Ballet, SRO Lyric Theatre, and Springfield Symphony to name a few, create so many enriching events for the community which we can broadcast through our arts calendars.

SRAC finds many ways to promote these values through our important partnerships with the Springfield-Greene County Park Board, Community Foundation of the Ozarks, Springfield Public Schools, Urban Districts Alliance, Springfield Missouri Convention and Visitors Bureau, Sports Commission, and City of Springfield.

All of this good work is possible through the leadership of our Executive Director Leah Hamilton, voted a Most Influential Woman of 2012 by the Springfield Business Journal, our dedicated and hard-working staff, community-minded board members, and many members and volunteers who donate time and resources year-round. I'm proud to be a part of this organization and team.

Letter from Outgoing President: Jeff Cumley

Wow, what a year! What an honor to be a part of such a fabulous organization! I really don't even know where to start in describing the past year's activities but I will do my best. Arts Council memberships continued to increase, arts continued to be an economic driver for the community and began to be recognized as such, Artsfest had another great year with some amazing artists and some umbrellas were sold for shade (not rain), the Collaborative Endowment Campaign continued to gain national attention and solid donors, First Friday Art Walk continued to thrill gallery goers and brought large crowds to the downtown area, arts education continued to reach the children of our community, the arts calendar, www.GoArtsNow.com, is now THE place to get arts-related information, the gallery inside The Creamery has featured nationally recognized artists and I could go on and on.

As I mentioned in last year's letter, the staff of the Arts Council, led by Executive Director Leah Hamilton, is phenomenal. Their dedication to arts is second to none. They are proud to be a part of the arts in this area and I am proud to have worked with them over the past year.

Letter from the Director

Infiltrate. To infiltrate is to permeate or become a part of something.

It does seem a little aggressive of a word, I know, but that is the word that keeps coming to mind to describe what the Arts Council has been striving to do this past year. We have looked at community needs and have tried to become a part of the solution.

Sometimes the arts can be an afterthought in addressing our greatest community issues including minimizing poverty, diversity, creating a stronger future workforce, and enhancing economic stimulus but the SRAC's dedicated board and staff have worked hard to keep our arts community in the forefront.

From integrating the Springfield-Greene County Civility Project Ten Tenants into our Growing Up in the Arts program for at-risk youth; to creating a new professional development series to keep our arts executives and artists on top of trends; to launching a five-year arts education plan in partnership with the Kennedy Center, the Community Foundation of the Ozarks, area arts organizations, and Springfield Public Schools, the SRAC has started what we hope is a wave of partnerships and collaborations that aligns with our newly approved vision; "SRAC makes the arts a vital part of the community, which is a place where the arts are essential."

Thank you for your membership, support, and passion for the arts. Please know that we need your help this upcoming year to "infiltrate" our community to make it a great place to live, work, and play. I hope you will consider signing up a friend as a member, volunteer at one of our events, or join one of our committees. I hope you also continue to experience and enjoy the hundreds of events, festivals, exhibitions, and performances that make our area so vibrant.

—Your Partner in the Arts,
Leah Hamilton
